

Women's History Materials In the Harriet Beecher Stowe Center Library

The library holds letters, documents, books, pamphlets and photographs by, to and/or about many 19th-century and early 20th-century women, including:

Susan B. Anthony (1820-1906), women's rights leader, suffragist

Catharine Beecher (1800-1878), author and educator

Olympia Brown (1835-1926), Universalist minister and suffragist

Georgia Cayvan (1857-1906), actress

Paulina Wright Davis (1813-1876), feminist, reformer and suffragist

Katharine Seymour Day (1870-1964), Hartford artist, philanthropist and preservationist

Anna Dickinson (1842-1932), Civil War orator and lyceum lecturer

Mary Hallock Foote (1847-1938), author and illustrator

Matilda Joslyn Gage (1826-1898), women's rights advocate, suffragist

Charlotte Perkins Gilman (1860-1935), feminist, author and lecturer

Angelina (1805-1879) and Sarah (1792-1873) Grimke, abolitionists

Mary Hall (1843-1927), Hartford lawyer

Caroline Hewins (1848-1926), pioneer children's librarian

Isabella Beecher Hooker (1822-1907), suffragist and woman's rights advocate

Harriet Ann Jacobs (c. 1813-1897), self-emancipated former slave and abolitionist, author

Sarah Orne Jewett (1849-1909), author

Lucretia Coffin Mott (1793-1880), Quaker minister, abolitionist and woman's rights pioneer

Caroline Severance (1820-1914), reformer and woman's club pioneer

Lydia Huntley Sigourney (1791-1865), Hartford author

Abby Haddassah (1797-1878) and Julia Evelina (1792-1886) Smith, Connecticut suffragists

Virginia Thrall Smith (1836-1903), Hartford city mission and charitable worker

Elizabeth Cady Stanton (1815-1902), woman's rights leader, suffragist

Augusta Stetson (1842-1928), Christian Science leader

Lucy Stone (1818-1893), feminist, abolitionist and suffragist

Harriet Beecher Stowe (1811-1896), author

Mary Kingsbury Talcott (1847-1917), artist and genealogist

Victorian Claflin Woodhull (1838-1927), woman's rights leader, suffragist

